Aje-Yemi/HELP Farm Update

The Aje-Yemi/HELP Farm is now becoming well established in Egbe and the surrounding communities. In the last few months, our poultry has increased with the addition of another 500 doc's (day old chicks) being added every few months to increase egg production as well as broiler raising; the arrival of 10 sows and 2 boar pigs to begin our swine unit; the revitalization of our feed mill to assist the surrounding communities with first-class quality feed for sale; and the planning of our fishery and beef cattle raising with the hopes of cross breeding the local cows with Angus cows through Artificial Insemination within the next year.

Our Farm partner, Major Henry Ajetunmobi, reported that last week the wife of the Elegbe of Egbe (the King) came and purchased eggs at the farm and spent 15 minutes praying loudly for Gods' continued grace for turning the farm around. "It was really an emotional scene for those who witnessed it" says the Major.
